Dangerous Intersections Will Be Redesigned for Improved Safety

New traffic designs for Princeton's most hazardous intersections may be laid out on the table for examination and discussion early this fall.

Both Borough and Township expect reports no later than the first week in October from consulting engineers hired under the Federal "TOPICS" program to redesign bad places on the road map.

TOPICS stands for Traffic Operations to Increase Capacity and Safety. Money comes from Federal sources, channeled through state and county. For some traffic improvements, such as a long-awaited light at Harrison and Valley, there would be no local cost at all.

Under TOPICS, consultants retained by the state have been visiting towns and examining dangerous intersections. In the case of Mercer County, work has been done by Travers Associates of Clifton.

After bucking the traffic for a while, the consultants draw up proposals for making various intersections safer. These reports go to the state, for approval or questioning. Then the municipality reviews the proposals and makes its own comments.

"The Travers people researched our accident records for the past five years and then made a list of bad spots," says Township Traffic Officer Anthony Nini.

Top priorities in the Township are the Harrison-Valley intersection, where the main entrance to the Princeton Shopping Center is located, and the intersection where Ewing dead-ends into Route 206.

So far this year, there have been 12 accidents at the Ewing corner and nine at the Shopping Center intersection.

Six other hazardous spots in the Township were noted by the traffic engineers:

- Snowden Lane and Kingston Road
- Lawrenceville Road at Quaker Road
- Route 206 and Mountain Avenue
- The Mercer Road bridge
- Cherry Valley and Route 206
- The Shopping Center interior

Actually, the Center's interior is beyond the legal scope of TOPICS since it's privately owned. But Sgt. Nini himself has been working with Center officials for the past two years to block out a better and safer traffic grid for Center blacktop.

Under new state regulations, Sgt. Nini explains, the Township can now pass ordinances allowing police to patrol the privately-owned Center.

If Township Committee agrees with the plans developed by the Center and Sgt. Nini, the blacktop will be painted to designate "one-way streets," no-parking areas and the direction of traffic flow. Upright standards will be installed to make good on the no-parking areas, which are chiefly honored now by people parking there.

Warning tickets would be issued for the first two or three weeks, Sgt. Nini explains, and then

Township Zoning Discussed, But Very Quietly

"Doesn't anybody have anything more to say?" asked Township Planning Board chairman Hans K. Sander in disbelief Monday night.

It was barely 9:30. The first public discussion of the Township's new zoning ordinance had dribbled on for only an hour or so, but the audience of some two dozen residents had played itself out.

Another public meeting on the ordinance will be held Monday, September 11, again at 8 p.m. in Township Hall. If people want still another meeting, that can be scheduled, too, Mr. Sander explained. The ordinance will have a legal public hearing before Township Committee on October 2.

Speakers made these points:

● Princeton University wants the planning board to put back into the ordinance a discarded provision allowing a non-owner to convert a house to multi-family use.

"The University hasn't any present plans along this line," assured Grant Green, of the

● Allowing business offices "but if you're going to let an owner who lives in a house convert it, why not let a non-owner, or an institution?"

One Family Preferred. "We want to keep the single-family idea," explained Abbot Moffat, planning board member. "You'd get commercial exploitation, with speculative buying by people who had no intention of living in the house," and board member James Floyd agreed.

Golda Gottlieb, planning board member and also chairman of the Regional Planning Board's housing sub-committee, said the question will be covered in the forthcoming housing report.

● Allowing business offices in the Service Two zone "writes into law what was defeated!" protested Arnold Damey, 641 Mt. Lucas Road. He was referring to defeat of the North Square office complex.

This Is Princeton

originally proposed for the Service Two area.

● Waive the requirement that windows in basements be 10 percent of the area, suggested John Dumont, 583 Cherry Hill Road. A lot of householders who have converted basements to playrooms are probably in violation of this requirement without knowing it, he said.

● If you allow roomers, how do you keep people from renting rooms to transients, by the day? asked Alan Jeydel, 308 Gallup Road.

● It is "too restrictive" to turn a Witherspoon business zone back to a residential area, said Charles R. Sperling, 311 Witherspoon. He owns property in the neighborhood.

Mr. Moffat assured him that nothing presently there would be changed. It's just that new business won't be allowed. "People in the area want it residential," Mr. Moffat added.

A Board of Health permit is required before a new tenant can move in, Mr. Moffat explained, and this will prevent transient trade.

● Frederick Lawrence, who owns the car-wash on Alexander Street, urged the board to allow as much leeway as possible in service zones.

Taxes, land costs and competition from neighboring towns make it hard for landowners in service zones to attract business, he complained. Phillip Golden, plumbing contractor at 759 State Road, agreed.

● If a restaurant get zoning approval for a certain number of seats in ratio to parking spaces, what's to prevent the owner from squeezing in extra tables, asked Roland Smith, 3d Pardee Circles.

The building inspector makes follow-up inspections, said building inspector W. Joseph Shinn.

K-MART REJECTED

For Third Time. A proposal to build a K-Mart on U.S. Route 1 near Meadow Road has been rejected by West Windsor Township Committee for the third time in less than 15 months. The lone vote against denying the application at Monday night's hearing was cast by Committeeman Charles Holman.

A variance, approved earlier this year by the Zoning Board, was sought by Developers Diversified for construction of a department store and food store. The application was denied on grounds that the developers had not proved beyond a reasonable doubt that the commercial project would not be detrimental to the area and its present zoning. It is currently rural and residential in nature.

Committee objections also included the volume of traffic that a K-Mart would generate, the amount of drainage that would flow into Duck Pond Run, which is not without problems as an outlet today, and the amount of sewage such a development would involve. The latter two charges were generally accepted as valid by William Baggitt, attorney for the developers, but he pointed out that it might not be to his clients' advanage to seek drainage and sewage disposal solutions if the needed variance is to be withheld on other grounds. Previous site-selection studies ran to $35,000. Mr. Baggitt said for a proposed K-Mart location at Route 1 and Quakerbridge Road which was later rejected in 1971.

The Princeton attorney, a resident of West Windsor, said that $2.4 million in rateables would be added to the municipality's sources of revenue. He noted that property taxes have doubled in the past ten years, and urged the addition of new construction.

Appeals to Committee to maintain the present residential standards of the area were made by a number of the 60 persons attending Monday's meeting. Warnings against the K-Mart ranged from problems of pollution and unwanted traffic to the presence of thieves, pick - pockets and dope peddlers.

FALL OPENING SET

For Princeton Meadows. The initial apartment phase of the new "Princeton Meadows" community is currently under construction in Plainsboro.

The 480-unit Fox Run Apartments is the first of a proposed 5,110 dwelling units to be built on the 720-acre Princeton Meadows site. The apartments are scheduled for an early fall opening.

Princeton Meadows, when complete, will be a "total living" community, consisting of dwelling units, recreational facilities such as tennis courts, swimming pools, regulation 18 hole golf course and clubhouse, 50 natural wooded acres with a private pond and lake and shopping facilities.

It will be the second venture in this part of the country for the Lincoln Property Company

Young Runaways Drawn to Princeton

Increasing numbers of 13-14-and 15-year olds are found by Borough police on the streets at late hours or as runaways, Chief Michael nevale said Tuesday.

"In the last week we have picked up a number of young people who should not be out on the streets. One was a runaway."

He said that many inquiries come from parents who have visited other areas and whose sons and daughters have disappeared. "We're always the first to be called and asked to be on the lookout. We have had kids from as far away as Ohio. The most recent involved a parent and daughter from Massachusetts."

The attraction in Princeton? "Well, Princeton is a great place. You have the University and there are so many dormitories . . ."

Lately, most of the missing youngsters are girls. The chief speculates that parents of boys wait a little before send out a missing person alarm.

Borough police arrange to house the runaways overnight, if necessary. When parents can't get to Princeton for a couple of days. They take the youngsters to the Youth House in Trenton.

Adolescents on the loose are a consistent problem, he said, adding, "Other communities have it, too."

SAFETY FIRST

If you have had a prescription filled (or re-filled) within the past few days, it may have had a new — to you — styled container.

Starting August 14, pharmacists in the United States have been required to dispense all prescriptions containing aspirin in safety or "child-resistant" containers. Aspirin is probably the most widely used drug in the world, but it is also one of the leading killers of young children, through accidental ingestion.

Eventually other classes of drugs will be required to be dispensed in those safety closure containers, until all oral medication is included.

If you do not want your prescription dispensed in this type of container, inform your pharmacist when you present your prescription for filling. You may even give him a request IN WRITING to exclude you and your family from this requirement. We have had the necessary forms prepared for this release from these Federal requirements, for your and our convenience. Remember that only you can grant a blanket release from this regulation, not your physician nor your pharmacist. We agree with the regulatory agencies that many lives will be saved by taking this precaution.

of Dallas, Texas. LPC's also completed the Forest Creek Apartments which opened in June in West Deptford. Lincoln Property Company, a international developer of apartment communities, owns and operates some 15,000 units.

It is one of the top three apartment builders in the country with sales of $131.5 million in 1971. LPC will soon expand it's international scope, with projects planned for seven European countries.

According to Dan Murphy, the firm's operating partner in charge of the Plainsboro venture, a thorough market analysis determined the Princeton location. Accessibility and the natural features of the land were LPC's key considerations in choosing the 720 acres in Plainsboro. Princeton Meadows is 4 miles from the town of Princeton and minutes from major highways and the railroad

ACME MARKET HELD UP

In West Windsor. The Acme supermarket on Princeton-Hightstown Road in West Windsor was held up at 10:30 Thursday night by two men armed with handguns.

The men fled after forcing the manager to open the safe and hand over the money in a brown zippered deposit bag. State Troopers and West Windsor police searched the area without success.

One of the men was described as 30 to 40 years old, five feet seven inches tall and with a European accent. The other, about 30 years old, waited outside. Both wore ski masks. The amount of cash taken was not disclosed.

PURSE, WALLET TAKEN

In Borough. A European woman visiting in Princeton was robbed of her purse last Tuesday while walking at 4:35 p.m. on Prospect Avenue.

The victim reported that she saw a youth crossing the street towards her. He grabbed her shoulder bag, leaving her with the strap, and ran down Roper Road. He was seen getting into a white car.

The purse contained $1 in cash, $210 in American Express checks and the victim's passport. It was found in West Windsor at 9 a.m. the next day at the intersection of Alexander Road and U.S. 1; only the cash had been removed.

On Thursday a 24-year-old Graduate College student was assaulted and robbed of $30 at 10:56 p.m. on College Road West.

Two young men approached him from the rear. One struck him in the face with his fist and the other reached out and grabbed his wallet. After subtracting the money, he returned the wallet and the pair fled.

SHOPLIFTERS ARRESTED

By Borough Police. Two Philadelphia women were arrested Thursday afternoon for shoplifting in Marsh Pharmacy and the English Shop on Nassau Street.

Rolegta Holloway, 29, of Rockland Street, was charged with taking items from Marsh's valued at $5. Ruby Jean White, 29, of Wayne Avenue, was charged with taking a $175 dress from the English Shop and for shoplifting at Marsh's The dress was recovered at police headquarters. It was found in the woman's girdle.

Sgt. Robert Anderson and Pfl. Ronald Holliday made the arrests. The couple were scheduled to appear before Municipal Judge Theodore T. Tanss Jr. on Wednesday.

Traffic Study Planned

These are temporary plans. Long-range, Sgt. Nini likes the idea of concrete curbs to restrain the traffic, but he says "let's try this first."

No radical changes have been planned for entrances and exits to the Center. However, a preliminary plan calls for narrowing the islands in the middle of Harrison to allow stacking room for drivers who want to make a left turn. Tais narrowing would extend about 350 feet north and south of the main Valley Road entrance. At that Valley-Harrison intersection would be traffic lights timed for left-and-right turns.

"The Travers people tried to get the state to give that intersection top priority, but they backed off — other places in the state are worse, they say," is Sgt. Nini's report. "But we're still hoping!"

Across the Line. In the Borough, the Central Business District as a whole came under the Travers scrutiny, rather than individual intersections, ney, Borough engineer.

"They investigated the whole according to Donald T. Hararea from Bank Street to Moore," he explains, "including bad intersections within the CBD, like Avalon-Chambers-John, and Harrison-Nassau. They were also concerned about Washington-Vandeventer-Nassau and the way line is very close, and townly line up."

Mr. Harney said he wasn't sure whether tree-street intersections with Nassau, like Pine, Chestnut and Linden, were specifically considered.

Another intersection that interests motorists is the point where Franklin crosses Harrison. This lies within the Borough, although the Township that intersection doesn't wholship officials have often talked about a traffic light there.

Federal Funds Available. Mr. Harney says that Federal money is available, to the tune of 50 percent, to pay for widening streets or acquiring more land for right-of-way. The municipality would pay the other half.

Also, if the Borough decided to eliminate some on-street parking so streets would be easier to move in, Federal money would pay half the purchase price of land bought to replace the lost on-street parking spaces.

Commenting on the state's notorious slowness to give a green light where Princeton traffic is concerned, Mr. Harney says,

"I'm optimistic: we have a better chance this time because it's Federal money."

More Community Park Recreation Facilities Due

The two new paddle-tennis courts may be ready by mid-October, with bocce and basketball not far behind.

The Recreation Commission has already rolled out its plans for the Township's site-plan review board and will go before the Planning Board Wednesday, September 6, for approval. Township Committee took the last legal steps Monday night.

The $45,000 project will be financed by both Borough and Township, with the Township acting as banker. Borough Council has already passed its resolution of approval. Under the rateables-based agreement between the two municipalities, the Township will pay two-thirds of the cost and the Borough one-third.

Donald Barr, recreation director, has the detailed specifications and once he gets Planning Board approval, he can go ahead and get bids, start construction and begin flexing his tennis paddle for a late autumn game.

Paddle Tennis. The two new platform courts will be built next to the present ones, but aligned north-south instead of east-west, like the existing courts.

"This means there will always be two courts with ideal playing conditions," Mr. Barr points out.

Bocce. Bocce courts, new to Princeton's recreation complex, will be tucked in between the trees along State Road to give players shade. The courts, of clay and fine sand, will be oriented north-south.

Basketball. The basketball court was originally laid out near bocce and paddle-tennis. But Mr. Barr agrees with the site-plan board that basketball should be moved to an area between the Community Park School bubble and the Tiger Bus garage.

"This will put the court closer to where people live," Mr. Barr explains, "and it means players won't have to cross all of Community Park to get to the court."

Electricity for night games will be close at hand, in the school, and gym classes can use the court during the school year. Negotiations are now under way with school officials Mr. Barr says.

(Township Committee said Monday night that the court will be lit at first by portable lights the municipality already owns. If night demand is heavy, permanent lighting can be installed).

Handball. Handball, also new to Community Park, will be available in a pair of courts to be built along State Road. However, handball is farther down on Mr. Barr's list of priorities than the three other games.

In another Community Park change, Mr. Barr plans to move the ball field that's close to Race Street, where the batter hits toward Route 206. This orientation means that the sun is often in the batter's eyes, so Mr. Barr is moving the field to the approximate place where lacrosse is played now.

This will mean a backstop close to Route 206 so the late afternoon sun is not a hazard.

PLANNING A DINNER DANCE: West Windsor Republicans will hold their annual dinner dance Friday, September 8, at the Princeton Country Club. Making arrangemenst are (from left) Ronald R. Black, committee chairman; Ruth LeProvost, club president; Warren W. Wagner, candidate for township committee; and Kathryn Holman, recording secretary. Tickets are available from club officers or by calling 448-2880.

YOUR TAXES AT WORK

Earning Money. An "aggressive job" of investment, said Township Mayor John D. Wallace to Township Committee Monday night, has brought the Township over $20,000 in interest as of August 10.

The mayor added another $5,680 which has been earned but not yet received, and said he hopes for $4,000 more by the end of the year for a total close to $30,000.

He credited Michael G. Fayko, assistant treasurer of the Township, with canny shopping among half a dozen banks in the Princeton area, and with performing the "aggressive job." He cited a recent investment of $500,000 for nine days at 4 percent.

The money comes from the Township's capital fund, trust fund, and from current income. Money flows in especially well when taxpayers meet their quarterly property-tax payments, the mayor observed.

Out It Goes. On the paying side, Committee passed the ordinance for a Princeton - Kingston Road sewer to be constructed on the north side, east of Locust Lane. This is the sewer recommended by the Board of Health.

The municipality doesn't plan to build another Kingston Road sewer segment which some property-owners want, the mayor said. The Board of Health doesn't feel there is real need for that sewer, he added.

The meter to measure the Township's contribution to the Rocky Hill-Montgomery sewer installation will be installed for $8,500 following passage of the ordinance Monday night.

Street, between 1 a.m. and 9 a.m. on Thursday.

George Maltabes of 18 1-2 Chestnut Street, who runs the restaurant, told Borough police that the cash was in a locked metal cabinet. Entry was made through a bathroom window in the rear.

There are no suspects. Sgt. Robert Anderson and Det. Robert McAvenia are investigating.

Police have arrested a suspect in the larceny at the A&S which took place earlier this summer.

PEDESTRIAN SIDE-SWIPED

At Vandeventer Corner. Terri A. Kurosky, 21, of Village Road East, West Windsor, was struck by a car Saturday as she started to cross Vandeventer at the corner of Nassau Street.

Driver John F. Bergen, 25, of 11 Alpha Road, Trenton, told Borough police that he was in the intersection coming from Washington Road, waiting for the car ahead of him to turn. The light turned yellow, he said, and he moved ahead into Vandeventer. He heard a thump and turning, saw a girl holding her arm.

Miss Kurosky said she was waiting at the curb for the light to change and when it did, she stepped into the street and was hit on the left arm. She was treated at Princeton Medical Center for a bruised and swollen left forearm. The antenna of the Bergen car was bent.

Police found no improper driving indicated but charged the driver with delinquency in failure to report the accident.

A pick up truck driven by William P. Wesp, 30, of 47 Edgmere Ave., Plainsboro, was struck at the intersection of Wiggins and Witherspoon streets last Tuesday afternoon by a car operated by Lula B. Clafft, 31, of 210 Upland Avenue, Trenton.

The truck was making a left turn into Witherspoon while the oncoming car was within the intersection, Mr. Wesp sustained a cut lip and a nosebleed, but refused medical attention. The front bumper, radiator and both front fenders of the truck were damaged. He was charged with failure to make proper observation of oncoming traffic.

Another pick up truck, parked at the curb on Nassau Street at Olden, was struck earlier the same day by Barbara Ann Matousek, 24, of Reading, Pa., who was steering around a dump truck stopped in the middle of the road.

Both trucks were being used by the construction company repaving Nassau Street. The parked pick-up was damaged at the left front fender. The Matousek vehicle was dented on the right side and both left doors were sprung. Police reported that the driver misjudged the distance.

In the Township, Robert L. Stone, 21, of Springfield, O., rounded the curve of Cherry Valley Road near Heather Lane at about 50 mph on Saturday afternoon, lost control of his car and struck the guard rail. The car turned over and slid on the roof.

Investigation by Ptl. D. A. Cromwell showed the car skidded 170 feet while on the curve before hitting the rail. The driver was charged with driving too fast for road conditions.

The car, belonging to Robert L. Stone of Windsor Castle Apartments, Cranbury, sustained a damaged roof and sides.

At the intersection of Route 206 and Cherry Hill Road last week, Deborah F. Lawrence, 21, of Bunker Driver, Belle Mead, was turning into Cherry Hill when her car was struck by a vehicle operated by Washing Lee, 29, of 58 Garden View Drive, Hightstown. Mrs. Lee said that he noticed the car in front of him preparing to turn and was passing on the right when he saw the Lawrence car.

Police found skid marks 71½ feet long. Investigation showed that the portion of the road shoulder used by Mr. Lee was partly off the pavement. He was charged with passing on the right.

TWO HOUSES ENTERED

In Township. Thieves pried open the cellar door at the home of Edward Helms, 37 Clearview Avenue, last week sometime between 8:30 a.m. and 6:30 p.m. The loss is undetermined, Township police said.

Stereo equipment and a camera were stolen from the apartment of Michael Hibbs and Moe Rubenzahl at 52 Birch Avenue between 10:30 p.m. and 12:25 a.m. last Wednesday.

Entry was made through the rear door; the living room and bedrooms were ransacked. Loss is valued at $810. Ptl. Harry Morton of the Township is investigating.

TRAFFIC COURT HELD

In Borough. Sandra M. Passerella, 22 of 132 Bentley Avenue, Trenton, was fined $10 in Borough Municipal Court this week for disregarding traffic signals. Daniel Colucci, 17, of 148 Cedar Lane, paid $10 for failure to yield after stopping at a stop sign.

Alexander Salter Jr., 22, of Route 27, charged with driving with a noisy muffler, failed to show up in court. The hearing of charges against Margaret F. Bennett, 30, 220 Princeton Arms, Cranbury, for failure to set a hand brake, was adjourned until September 11.

HEARING DATE RESET

For Penn Central Fare Hike. Resumption of the public hearing on a 10 percent fare increase requested by the Penn Central Transportation Company, originally scheduled for August 16, has been postponed to August 30, the Department of Transportation has announced.

The hearing will start at 10 a.m. in room 306 in the State Office Building, 1100 Raymond Boulevard, Newark. Come pouring down?

August has passed the halfway mark with virtually no measurable rainfall. The rare showers have been of the hit and run variety, not really enough to wet the dust.

Now, the Man says, he can see some possibility of precipitation on Friday but there is no guarantee whatsoever. In any event, the weekend figures to be clear, with daily temperatures returning to the mid 80s after the markedly cooler spell earlier this week.

43 FRESHMEN HERE

For Early Orientation. The college experience begins this week for 43 entering Princeton freshmen who have arrived on campus, a month before formal opening of classes, for a special orientation program designed to aid minority students in their adjustment to academic work here.

By the time they are joined by the remainder of their classmates over Labor Day weekend — which will mark the beginning of the University's regular Freshman Week — the 27 young men and 16 young women will have undergone rigorous exposure to the Princeton academic work load, with a regular three - week schedule of classes in mathematics, science, English and foreign languages.

The orientation program — funded by grants from the Educational Opportunity Fund of the State of New Jersey and from the University itself — is now in its fourth year, with most of the 15 Princeton upperclassmen and women who serve as staff having gone through the program themselves when they were entering freshmen.

The schedule involves classes in the morning, with afternoon set aside for organized study, special projects and individual conferences with the faculty members in the program. The students are housed in one dormitory on campus — 1901 Hall — and have use of University recreational facilities during free time periods. Meals are served at the Student Center, where faculty members and staff meet with students informally over lunch.

The new freshmen come from 17 states — some as far away as California, Arizona and New Mexico — and the District of Columbia. Ten of the participants are from here in New Jersey.

The program's administrative director Roberto Barragan, Jr., Assistant Director of the Bureau of Student Aid, stressed the key role played in the administrative and counseling aspects of the project by Princeton undergraduates. His assistant director is Evora A. Thomas, a junior from Newark. The head counselor for men is Larry Adams, a Jersey City junior; head counselor for women is Vicki Takeuchi, also a junior, from Los Angeles.

The teaching staff for the program consists of five full-time Princeton faculty members, one member of the faculty at Essex County Community College, and four University graduate students. They include Elizabeth Abel, a graduate student in Comparative Literature; Michael J. Capek, Assistant Professor of English; Jan R. Carew, a Lecturer in Afro - American Studies; Charles W. Crupi, Assistant Professor of English; Leon-Francois Hoffman, Professor of Romance Languages; Cecilia Kuehner, a graduate student in Romance Languages; Alfred D. Price, graduate student in Architecture and Urban Planning; Bennie Ward, graduate student in Physics; and Robert J. Wiekenheiser, Assistant Professor of English.

STUDY BEGINS HERE

leine, termed the arrival of the student group at the Center "an event of great importance."

"We now see tangible implementation of the agreement signed last April by the Rutgers Medical School of the College of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey and the Medical Center," Dr. Reain said. "These four men represent the vanguard of additional three and four-year Rutgers Medical School students scheduled to join us in the months ahead.

The Medical Staff here at the Center wholeheartedly and enthusiastically welcomes their arrival. We definitely feel that their affiliation with our teaching program will have a meaningful impact on the total health care picture in our service area."

The four students, currently pursuing study programs in the Medical Center's Department of Medicine, include Bruce Granovetter, of Jersey City; Stephen Rabin, of Cranford; Steven Stowe, of New York City and Donald Weinberg, of Fort Lee.

POSTER CONTEST SET

By League of Women Voters. Get-Out-To-Vote is the theme of a poster contest co-sponsored by the League of Women Voters of New Jersey and the Institute for Political Education.

According to Elaine Bezilla, Voters Service Chairman of the Princeton Area League of Women Voters, the winning poster in the contest, open to young people between 16 and 21, will be adopted as the official Youth Voting Poster for use statewide before the November election.

This contest will be judged by a nine - member panel with representatives from the education, art, political and civic communities. Rex Goreleigh, a Princeton artist, is one of the judges.

The contest will focus attention on the importance of responsible political participation by young citizens newly eligible to vote.

Entries may be submitted before the September 20 deadline, and must reflect the Get-Out-To-Vote theme. Posters must be 14"x17", done in pen and ink, crayon or water colors. There is a $25 prize.

YMCA SETS RECORDS

For Interest in Summer Programs. The Princeton YMCA is concluding its busiest summer in history with a record participation in classes, camping programs and informal use of facilities, according to Bernard Cooke of 67 Rollingmead, vice-president of YMCA program activities.

Mr. Cooke reported "the current two week sports camp, and the Junior Leaders 18-day pack and canoe trip to Colorado are concluding our busiest summer, with a record weekly attendance of 400 boys and girls in classes and day camp activity. These included trampoline, gymnastics, swim classes, toddlers' school, child care, arts and crafts and day camp programs."

In addition, 200 Princeton boys and girls are participating in the YMCA Resident Camp at Blairstown and 150 other boys were enrolled in the Ranger Woodsman Camp. Attendance on Ranger Trips totaled 140, with three trips to the Wharton Pine Barrens, a trip to Nova Scotia, one to upper Michigan, one to Mt. Katahdin, Maine, and two to Colorado.

The YMCA this summer provided approximately $2,400 to children for camp scholarship subsidies. Scholarship funds were provided through Church Women United, The Town Topics Christmas Fund and individual gifts.

In addition to scheduled youth programs for younger ages, a record number of high school students and adults participated in informal use of the Athletic Center. Attendance figures from June through August 10 including the weight lifting room, basketball courts, handball courts and pool, plus classes in judo, karate, tennis and swimming, were in excess of 12,000.

Western Union Still Open

Western Union's Princeton staff experienced a slight anti-climax last week when company officials decided not to close the Witherspoon Street office on Thursday after all. It will remain open until 11 p.m., Thursday, August 24, when its substitute office will be ready said Martin Liples, manager of Princeton's office.

To meet Federal Communication Commission requirements, a telegram delivery and money-order service must operate at street level. The Princeton Telephone Answering Service, which will take over those two Western Union operations, won't be ready to move into its new office at 205 Nassau Street for another week.

Until then, Western Union's 29 Witherspoon office will still welcome customers, Mr. Liples said.

MUSEUM EXHIBIT OPENS

On Insects. An exhibit of New Jersey insects and some of their tropical relatives opened this week on the second floor of the New Jersey State Museum. The insects are from the collection of Dr. Ginter Ekis, insect taxonomist for the New Jersey Department of Agriculture.

Some giant tropical beetles with six inch long legs, a praying mantis that resembles a leaf, assassin bugs that transmit sleeping sickness, and many beneficial and harmful New Jersey insects highlight the exhibit.

Hundreds of specimens from eight separate orders of insects are represented. The tropical specimens are from Mexico, Costa Rica, Panama, and Venezuela.

This exhibit, which is a cooperative effort of the New Jersey Department of Agriculture (Division of Plant Industry), Rutgers - the State University (Department of Entomology), and the New Jersey State Museum (Bureau of Science), is on display at the Museum daily, Monday through Saturday and holidays from 9 to 5 and Sunday from 2 to 5.

The Governor's VIEW

By Gov. William T. Cahill

PRISON REFORM VITAL

Benefits Immense. Have you ever considered the amount of money that could be saved if there were no crime? I don't mean intangible savings like burglary insurance and price mark-ups to cover shoplifting losses — those kinds of savings.

I mean hard cash tax dollars that we all pay every year, year in and year out, to restrain crime. Notice I didn't say "end" crime. I doubt that civilization and man's basic nature will change that much in our lifetimes. I'm talking about the money we pay just to restrain crime . . . hold it down . . . keep it below the level we've experienced so far, if possible.

Just think of the money we could save — and the constructive things we could do with that money — if we didn't have to support police departments with their personnel, cars and equipment; the courts with their staffs and records, the jails with their guards and staffs and equipment and the buildings that go with all these functions. It comes to many millions of dollars every year.

Of course, police and courts and jails are very necessary in today's society. The law-abiding citizen must be protected in his person and in his property from those who will not observe the law. But it is well to question whether the system we now use and have used for so long, is necessarily the only way and the best way and the most inexpensive way to provide that protection.

Entire System Questioned. In raising the question of the cost of security, I'm not concerned here so much with the police and courts, which have progressed and developed over the years, as I am our jail system.

The system we now use in our jails is basically the system we used 100 years ago and more. What it really amounts to is just a method of warehousing people. We store them until we're ready to release them. And experience has shown that while we remove from society some threats to our security for awhile, we accomplish very little in solving the total problem. The percentage of offenders who return to jail is disheartingly high.

Just picture the savings that would be possible and the human tragedies minimized, if we could reduce the number of persons sent to prison, the amount of time they spend in prison, and the number of persons who return to prison.

This is precisely the aim of this administration's prison reform program. There are persons in prison, who because of the nature of their crimes, do not represent a threat to our persons. The security required fo them is minimal and their successful rehabilitation is most likely.

Others are in prison because, among other things, social problems have contributed to their conditinn. Some are illiterate or semi-illiterate and lack the skills to make a living in society.

Possibilities Listed. To accomplish productive prison reform, here are some of the possibilities under consideration or in stages of implementation:

- Provide, as an alternative to institutionalization, small intensive treatment centers for adults in the local community.
- Release selected offenders who present a minimum threat to the community at the earliest possible time.

- Plan and construct a limited number of small medium-security rehabilitation centers with emphasis on pre-release preparation and community adjustment.
- A comprehensive institution-community vocational program as a means of providing services and skills to inmates and parolees.

- Community Treatment Centers to deal with juveniles at the post adjudication stage.
- A full program of education for all inmates, including literacy training, elementary and high school classes, social education, trade-related classes and increased availability of college level courses.

There are many other aspects which space won't permit listing here, but this will indicate the scope of what we would like to accomplish.

One recent implementation has been the establishment of a full-time three-member parole board. The board, as previously constituted, was inadequate to the responsibilities which have developed.

Other actions can be expected in the future, all designed — not to coddle prisoners, as some people fear when they hear of prison reform — but to help relieve us of the cost of crime and to, most of all, improve society.

LAST TOURNAMENT HELD

Mixed Doubles Play Ends. The Princeton Y.M.C.A. and Community Tennis Association tennis tournaments came to an end as Mr. and Mrs. William Harper of Yardley won the mixed doubles by defeating Mr. and Mrs. Martin Katz of Princeton, 6-1, 0-6, 6-3. The Harpers also won the Trenton mixed doubles this year.

In gaining the finals, the Katzs defeated Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Dumpel of Princeton in straight sets 6-3, 6-3. The Harpers triumphed over Jeff Oakes a Princeton University sophomore and winner in the men's doubles, and Randy Gulick, 16 year old Junior Champion from Princeton, 6-4, 5-7, 6-2.

In other competition, Patty Wall and Julie White, co directors of the Women's Tournaments, defeated Ellie Flory and Joyce Greenberg, 6-2, 6-1, to win the Women's Doubles Consolation Round. Forty mixed doubles teams entered the tournament, the largest turnout in its 16 years.

TWO HERE COMPETE

In National Swim Tourney. Cathie Corcione and Mal Howard, the fastest swimmers in the Princeton Community swimming program and in several events the fastest swimmers in New Jersey, proved last week that they are well up among th fastest swimmers in the nation.

Miss Corcione, who was a member of the 1968 Olympic team in Mexico City missed the 1972 Olympics by two-tenths of a second. At the Olympic Trials in Chicago, she placed 6th in the 100 meter freestyle. The team took 5 freestyle sprinters.

In the National Swimming Championships, held in a 4-day meet last week-end in Hershey, Penna., and open to swimmers who had not made the Olympic team, Miss Corcione placed 3rd and 6th and 13th in the 3 events she swam. These were all events she did not swim at the trials: the 400 individual medley, in 5:18.8, the 100 meter butterfly, in 1:05.8, and the 200 meter back stroke in 2:33.0.

Mal Howard, a member of the Princeton University varsity swimming team who has been working with Bill Farley, his coach, this summer, placed 12th in the 200 meter individual medley in 2:18.6, and 13th in the 200 meter breast stroke in 2:37.5.

NASSAU ENDS 8-0

Beats Ben Franklin Club. The Nassau Swim Club team, coached by Bruce Nystrom, finished an undefeated season of 8-0 with its victory over Ben Franklin Swim Club of Lawrenceville, 156-152, August 10.

This places Nassau at the top of the Princeton Area Swimming and Diving Association which is made up of twelve teams in this area. Five teams including Nassau are in the A division, and seven teams in the B division. Brooktree Swim Club of Hightstown is in second place with five wins and three losses, but third place is still undecided.

Tom Bolster was a double winner and a member of a winning relay team. Single winners and members of winning relay teams were Marc Coutin, Paul Sally, Barb VanHorn, Beth Alberts and Paul Keaney.

Other winners included Scott Garvey, Ann Coutin and Carrie Garvey, Ann Coutin and Carr Bolster, Nassau Swim Team earlier had defeated Bedens Brook, 175-127. Mary Bolster was a triple winner in that meet. Marc Coutin, Keaney, Garvey and Dorothy Dyson were double winners.

MAJOR UPSETS SCORED

By Princeton Tennis Players. The Trenton District Junior Tennis Championships were held at Cadwalader Park this past week, with Princeton players scoring several major upsets in both singles and doubles.

In the 18 and under doubles, the unseeded team of Bill Schmidt and Michel Glouce-vitch defeated top seeded teams, including the No. 1 team in the semi-finals, and the No. 2 team in the finals. They earned their doubles trophy by ousting Rusty Stubbe of Newtown, Pa., and Jon Kraut of Trenton by a score of 6-1, 6-1.

Randy Thomas also carried home a trophy as the runner-up in the 18 and under singles. In the semi-finals, he defeated No. 2 seeded Murray Gorsen, of Merion, Pa., but lost to the top seeded Mark Braunstein of Berwyn, Pa. in the finals.

A third Princeton finalist was Natalie Uslekin. In the semi finals of the 16 and under division, she met and defeated Fellow-Princetonian, Andrea Murphy, 6-3, 7-5. Michelle Tobin, of Wilmington, Del., the eventual winner of both the 16 and the 18 singles events beat Natalie in the finals of the 16's and also defeated Princeton's Randy Gulick in the semi finals of the 18's.

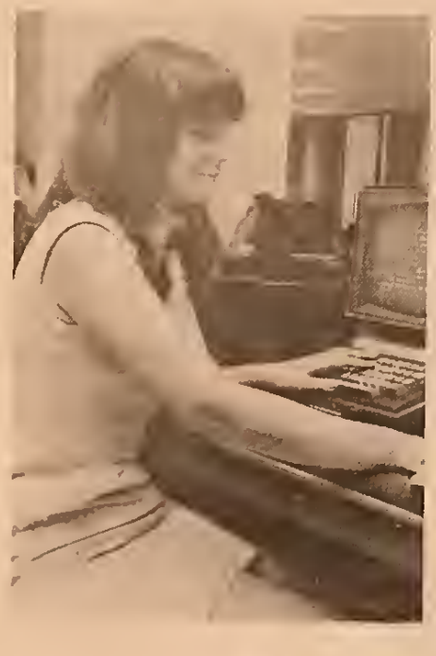
Meet Sharon Miller; Dollar Stretcher:



She helps make sure you can continue your coverage when you change jobs or move out of the area.

Sharon is a Group Deletions Clerk in our Accounts Processing Department. When a group subscriber changes employment or moves out of New Jersey, Sharon feeds this data into our computers. This triggers a series of events which enable the subscriber to continue coverage on a direct-pay basis or transfer to other Blue Cross and Blue Shield Plans.

Sharon is one of our very efficient dollar stretchers. Through the use of sophisticated electronic equipment she is now able to perform her important work in one-third of the time previously required. This means faster service to our members. And considerable savings in time and administrative expenses.

Thanks to people like Sharon and our other dollar stretchers, the operating expenses for New Jersey Blue Cross and Blue Shield are only a few pennies of each membership dollar. About one-third the operating expenses of commercial health insurance companies.

Sharon Miller. It's your dollar she's stretching. She's another of the many reasons New Jersey Blue Cross and Blue Shield deliver more health care for your health-care dollar.

MEET WITH POPE: Rev. Dr. Robert P. Montgomery, former chaplain on the Westminster Foundation at Princeton University, talks with Pope Paul VI in Rome. Immediately behind Dr. Montgomery is Monsignor John Endebrock, pastor of St. Paul's, who with the Rev. Charles Weiser, chaplain on the Aquinas Foundation at Princeton, was among the clergy and laity attending the ecumenical seminar held in Rome in July under Dr. Montgomery's leadership. The latter is now associate professor of philosophy at John Jay College of Criminal Justice, New York City. A second seminar is planned for next June.

News Of The CHURCHES

REV. CARR TO LEAVE

Finishing at St. Andrew's. The Rev. John C. Carr, assistant to the minister at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, leaves at the end of this month for Garrett Theological Seminary and Northwestern University, where he is a candidate for a doctorate in pastoral psychology.

The Rev. Mr. Carr has been responsible for the Christian education and outreach programs at St. Andrew's since last fall, while continuing his studies at Princeton Seminary. Since the sudden death of the pastor, Rev. F. Hugh Liffiton on March 29, he has provided wider leadership and pastoral care for the congregation. The Rev. Willard H. Wellman is now serving as interim minister.

A native of southwestern Ontario, he holds a B.A. from the University of Toronto, a B.D. from Knox College, Toronto, and the Th. M. in pastoral theology from Princeton Theological Seminary. He was ordained a Presbyterian minister in 1962 and served as pastor of the Park Royal Presbyterian Church, Clarkson, Ont., and Albion Gardens Presbyterian Church, Rexdale, Ont.

The Rev. Mr. Carr, his wife, Marilyn and two children will live in Evanston, Ill.

YOUTH LEADER TO SPEAK

In Methodist Church. The Rev. William Kight, minister to youth for the Princeton Presbyterian Commission, will speak at the 10 a.m. service on Sunday in Princeton United Methodist Church.

The soloist at the service will be Earl Cunningham, director of public information at Westminster Choir College, and, for the past three years, director of the church's senior choir.

The Rev. Mr. Kight, a graduate of the University of Michigan in 1965 with a degree in pre-professional social work, received the bachelor of divinity degree from Princeton Seminary in 1970. During his years at the seminary, he began his work with Princeton youth.

He has helped bring about awareness of the drug abuse problem in the community, and was instrumental in the formation of five task forces keyed to youth needs. These include the Princeton Hot Line, housing, food and clothing for youth with drug problems, visiting jailed youth, and working on legislative and judicial reform.

PLANS ARE SET

By Nursery School. Princeton Cooperative Nursery School begins its 11th year on September 19. Mrs. Marion Bakoulis is teacher - director of the school, which is sponsored by Princeton Presbyterian churches.

This fall there will be a new fourday week program for 4-year-olds. The toddler class for age 2 and five other classes for ages 3 and 4 will continue.

As a cooperative school, patents have the opportunity to assist in the classroom and on field trips, increasing their understanding of the program and its relationship to their child. The school has a child-centered approach.

Classes are held in the three Princeton churches. Enrollment averages 50 percent Presbyterian, 50 percent from other denominations.

Further information may be obtained from Elsa Soderberg, 921-3863.

TWO SERVICES SET

For Presbyterians. The summer union services of the Princeton Presbyterians will be held at 8:30 a.m. in Princeton Cemetery and at 10 in Witherspoon Street Church across the way.

The Rev. Dr. William LeG. Tucker, minister of visitation and pastor emeritus of St. Andrew's Church, is the preacher. His sermon title is "Journey Into Tomorrow." John W. Counts, librarian at the Littlebrook School, will be the soloist.

YOUNG VOLUNTEERS HELP

At Morris Hall. Morris Hall Health and Rehabilitation Center in Lawrenceville has added candy striped teenage girls as junior volunteers.

According to Mrs. Joseph S. Holland, director of volunteers, the teenage aides have been recruited from area schools including Villa Victoria, Stuart Country Day, Notre Dame High School, Fisher Junior High School and Boehm High School.

The girls work with the Center's nursing units, performing escort service — the taking of the rehabilitation patients to and from occupational and physical therapy, and other duties. The candy stripers also make beds, give handicapped patients any needed help at mealtime, including serving trays, feeding them and cutting up food.

WE THE UNDERSIGNED HEREBY PETITION THE PRINCETON TOWNSHIP COMMITTEE TO TAKE IMMEDIATE ACTION TO PREVENT THE PROPOSED USE OF TOWNSHIP LANDS BY THE INSTITUTE FOR DEFENSE ANALYSES, OR ANY OTHER ORGANIZATION WHICH IS PRIMARILY DEVOTED TO SECRET RESEARCH FOR THE MILITARY.

We are petitioning the Princeton Township Committee to prevent the Institute for Defense Analysis from locating in Princeton because we are opposed to the policies of the Department of Defense in implementing the Indochina war.

IDA was created and has functioned as a research arm of the Department of Defense, and has made a major contribution to the technology needed for this war.

By opposing IDA's location here, we seek to set an example for other communities. We encourage all people opposed to the government's war policies to stand against these policies, not only on the National level but also where they have the most power... in their own towns.

Citizens in Search of Peace

Princeton Township Committee will accept signatures from both township and borough residents.

If you can help us canvass for signatures, please call 921-6161 (1-4 p.m.) Petitions may also be signed at Fund for Peace Education, 163 Nassau St.

Funds are urgently needed to cover this action! Checks written to "Citizens in Search of Peace," 163 Nassau St., will be gratefully accepted.

YOU ARE LIKE NO ONE ELSE...

Are you concerned?

You probably are concerned. Not only about your future, but the future of others, as well.

Maybe, however, you don't quite know how to channel that concern. Mercer County Community College has the solution you've been looking for.

We've instituted a human services curriculum for the individual who cares.

Look at your community. Are there things you'd like to assist with? Drug abuse programs. Prison reform. More and better business opportunities. If so, then the "community service" curriculum is for you.

Or maybe teaching is your thing. Small children. Underprivileged kids. Whatever. MCCC's "educational assistant" program will prepare you, as it has other fulfilled graduates who report, "If it hadn't been for Mercer County Community College, today I wouldn't be a teacher . . . helping children."

And that's not all. If you love books, recognize the value that the printed page has for the entire community, then sign up for the "library assistantship" course. The possibilities for development and outreach are tremendous.

Interested? Concerned? To find out more about one or all three human services programs, call Mrs. Evelynne Burroughs at (609) 586-4800, Ext. 279.

Consciousness I furniture from Cane Farm

The pioneer spirit is not merely alive; it thrives, in the spirited early American creations and re-creations at Cane Farm.

How did you get the most warmth from a walk in fireplace? You cuddled right up to it in a settle, that's how. The high back kept the heat from getting past you, so you got the most good from the least fuel. The original of this settle (late 1600's) is in the Metropolitan Museum. You can fill a foyer wall with our re-creation. It's 51" wide, 64½" high.

Dry sink. Once a necessity, now a simple delight. We make them a dozen different ways. This one's Dutch. Yours can be any style you want.

Science Proves Key to Valid Art Restoration

For almost a century and a half, the Concilio Family has devoted its skill and love to the care of fine works of art. Now the youngest member of the family, Dr. Alfredo Concilio, has established himself in Princeton.

Dr. Concilio's atelier is on the corner of Mansgrove and State Road, in a series of studio rooms formerly occupied by an architect.

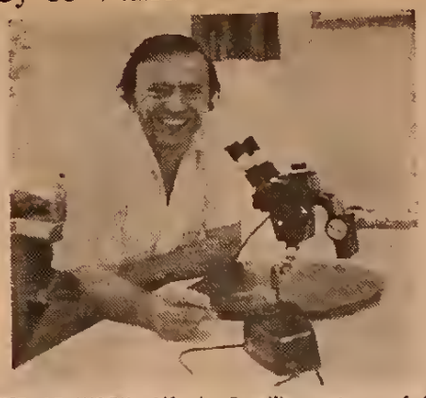
Here, surrounded by the ultra-violet lamps, special cameras, chemical compounds and specialized instruments of his art, he peers into the past and restores for the present.

Oils, water-colors, sculpture —the Princeton Center for Fine Arts Conservation is equipped to handle all kinds of cleaning and restoring.

Real—or Forged. Closely allied with this work is the delicate job of authenticating various works of art. Is this a real Roman bronze? Is it a Fragonard or a forgery?

With a $16,000 microprobe, Dr. Concilio can make a chemical analysis of bronze and discover how much copper, how much zinc was used in its composition.

Knowing the casting procedures of the Romans, he can then make the required scientific comparision and authenticate the sculpture.



ARTIST AT WORK: Alfredo Concilio, restorer of fine arts, is an artist in his own field. Here, with stereo microscope, he is at work cleaning a small painting.

In similar fashion, the age of pigments is a clue to the age of a painting. Dr. Concilio has a small oil thought to be a Fragonard. Research showed pigments used before Fragunards' day, and faintly visible, the signature of Boucher. It is Dr. Concilio states, an authentic Boucher.

"You see, I could have a feeling that it was not Fragonard," he explains, "but I could well be wrong. Scientifically, however, there is no room for human error."

Signatures Checked. In the case of a print, a Chagall for example, Dr. Concilio would check the signature for forgery, matching it carefully with authenticated signatures. Then he would examine the kind of paper, the kind of ink, again making scientific comparisons with the originals. And in the end, he would know whether the print had indeed come from Chagall.

He points out that an artist's brush-strokes are as individual as a fingerprint. And as difficult to forge accurately as a signature.

Pastels present something of a problem here, he says. Ultra-violet light can show that a signature was written later than the oil painting. But whether it was written later than the pastel is hard to determine. A study of the artist's style, as in a charming Toulouse-Lautrec — perhaps? — pastel in the Concilio work room, is a strong clue.

A small ultra-violet flashlight shows instantly the dark tell-tale spots that indicate retouching or restoring. When the light snaps off, the retouched area looks like the rest of the painting.

Came to U.S. In 1959, Dr. Concilio came to the United States in 1959 from his native Italy as an exchange student from Brera Academy, the art school in Milan, to New York University. He studied English, and decided to stay here.

He learned restoration from his father, now theoretically retired, but summoned by the Vatican to work on the damaged Michaelangelo "Pieta".

Dr. Concilio, who moved to Princeton only two months ago, learned about the pleasures of the community from his friends Gillett Griffin and Alfred Bush at the University, and after ten years' of visits to Princeton from his former studio in Summit, decided to move. "I like it here so much!"

IS THIS WHAT THE BUTLER SAW? Not exactly. But it's a scene from Summer Intime's comedy. Richard Ferrugio (center, more or less) is rigid from an overdose of pills and William Hootkins (right) and John Vennema are attempting to set him a-right.

Wild and Witty Orton Comedy Brings Intime Season to Peak

Velocity and decibel count continue high at Summer Intime with "What the Butler Saw," the company's fourth and final play of the summer repertory season.

It will be presented again this Thursday through Saturday at 8:30 in Murray Theatre, with a final performance Sunday at 7:30.

Playwright Joe Orton must have had a wonderful time with this one, arranging bits, pieces and scraps in fine jig-saw style and then applying his own mordant overlay.

What he's done is to take all the cliches of the popular theatre, past and present (witness the play's title), and stir them all in with his own dark and witty observations.

Within a couple of fast acts, he covers sex, in an assortment of forms, varieties and attitudes; illusion versus reality; the government; national heroes; religion; official prying into private affairs and above all, psychiatry with its hilariously wrong-headed verdicts on the reasons for human behavior.

No Lack of Motion. It's a very, very, very verbal play. Somebody in the audience mumbled that it didn't "move." Well, maybe the plot doesn't achieve altitude very fast but the play "moves" as last week's "Flea in Her Ear" moved, with continual exits and entrances (one by ladder); constant trips to the bar for a quickie; and a general impression of an old movie seen at high speed.

Orton is a witty writer. He's not above using just plain old jokes as a track for some of his witticisms, either. If you enjoy verbal play, you can have a good time at this Intime presentation without even watching all the exits because, after all, the stage business is right out of W.C. Fields, Groucho Marx and, indeed, the Georges Feydeau of "Flea in Her Ear," so you've seen it all before.

Since Orton is commenting on the world, he has set his play in a madhouse. Well, in the office of a psychiatrist who runs a clinic (a first-rate set by Lowell Achziger, by the way).

The psychiatrist, with a clinical interest in sex and with certain problems of his own along that line is played with febrile energy by William Hootkins.

Show Stealer. The doctor is being investigated by a government psychiatrist, done with dazling skill by Daniel Berkowitz, who manages to keep at precisely the right level the requisite "ach so!" accent and who, in fact, steals the show (in case Mr. Orton needs another cliche.)

Alice White, a leggy beauty, is wide-eyed beseiged innocence and Shirley Kauffman is the woman wise in the ways of the world.

John Vennema makes a nice and cheeky Cockney bell-hop, and he is equally good when he appears reluctantly and morosely in drag. We've forgotten for the moment just what plot twist gets Mr. Vennema into that blonde wig and green dress, but it had a kind of wild logic at the time, and it speeds "What the Butler Saw" to its outrageously classic conclusion.

Larry Strichman, the director, has set speed and volume high and sustained both throughout. His use of deadpan delivery on occasion, particularly from Kauffman and Berkowitz, serves to change the pace without slowing it down.

Incidentally, audiences who thought "Flea in Her Ear" went on too long will like "What the Butler Saw." Orton knows when to stop: the play is not even two hours in length.

McCARTER READY

With World Premiere. A verse play based on the Greek legend of Agamemnon and on the Aeschylus drama, will open the new repertory season for McCarter Theatre on Thursday, October 26.

The author is William Alfred, whose poetic tragedy "Hogan's Goat" won several awards in the 1965 New York season. "Agamemnon" will have a two-week run at McCarter following its October opening, and will be the first in a five-play repertory season. Director and cast will be announced later.

Dr. Alfred is a professor of English literature at Harvard and is currently revising his new translation of "Beowulf." A new play, "Nothing Doing" is tentatively scheduled for production during the coming season.

"Hogan's Goat" was Dr. Alfred's first produced play. After graduation from Brooklyn College, the playwright went to Harvard where he wrote "Agamemnon" between 1947 and 1952 while he was a member of Archibald MacLeish's playwriting workshop. He holds the doctorate from Harvard.

In "Hogan's Goat," Dr. Alfred explores turn-of-the-century political warfare in New York. The play won the Drama Desk's Vernon Rice Award from New York critics and the Religious Drama Award of the National Catholic Theatre Conference.

"MANY MOONS"

Next, for Street Theatre. James Thurber's fantasy about a beautiful young princess who wanted the moon will come to Princeton's outdoor theatre areas next weekend when Street Theatre mounts "Many Moons" as a play with music.

The play will be performed at the high school next Thursday, August 24; Riverside School on Friday, August 25; Community Park on Saturday, August 26 and Cadwalader Park in Trenton on Saturday, August 27.

Curtain-times are 7:30. If it rains in Princeton, all local performances will be in the Borough Hall gym.

In Thurber's magical kingdom by the sea, Andrea Murphy will play Princess Lenore and Ralph Woolverton will be her father the King. Debbie Bergman has been cast as Court Jester. All are residents of Princeton.

The Lord High Chamberlain will be Mickey Colton of Trenton; the Royal Wizard will be Peter Randof, who lives in Cranbury, and the Mathematician will be Lee Livney, from Lawrenceville.

In other roles, Street Theatre has cast Myra Chanley of Kendall Park as Cynicia and Kathy Barry of Princeton, as Paretta. Jill Parsons will be the Royal Nurse. Anne Hazen the Goldsmith's daughter and Kathy Hilst the Moon Dancer.

Special music for this production has been composed by Deborah Bellow and arranged by Leigh Ruderman. Chris Negus has designed the set.

MOOG

In Intime Concert. Dave percussion for electronic instruments, will perform next Friday, August 25, at 8 p.m. and again at 11 p.m. in Murray Theatre for Summer Intime.

Brewer was drummer for Gershon Kingsley's First Moog Quartet, and he performed in a tour which included concerts in Carnegie Hall and with the Boston Pops.

For the Intime concert, he will be accompanied on moog

Aida will be Kathleen Hunsberger, who has sung ten leading roles in opera for the Artists Showcase Theatre and the Hoboken Opera.

Radames will be a young dramatic tenor from Morrisville, Raymond Foose, who made his debut in opera less than a year ago at Artists Showcase Theatre and has now sung leading roles in Fledermaus, Traviata, Rigoletto and Ladoheime. Other members of the cast will be the same as Friday and this cast will appear again on August 26 with a few changes to be announced later.

THE PEWTER COLLECTION of Studio Twelve's new shop in the Montgomery Center includes the famous Royal Holland patterns.

IT'S NEW To Us

STUDIO TWELVE MOVES

To New Setting. Studio Twelve has been in the Montgomery Shopping Center for the past five years, and feeling pinched for space, has moved into the newest unit at the Center where it has more than 8,000 square feet to display its wares.

Owners Richard and Joann Carlson have always featured the work of fine craftsmen, some of it imported, some made locally, including Mr. Carlson's own silver jewelry.

Their goal in the new building, "is to show quality merchandise in a soft, informal, low-key setting," Mr. Carlson phrased it last week. "We don't dog people; we let them take their time, and the price on everything is showing so that they don't have to be embarassed and ask. . .

"We feel strongly that there is too much chrome and plexiglass and waiting lines today. Here, the owner is in the shop at all times — this is our life, and we spend so much time here, why not make it comfortable for everybody—ourselves, too!"

The Carlsons have accomplished a very restful environment in which to shop for a gift, or for an art object to enrich your house. There is a wide balcony on the second level that goes all of the way around. Soon there will be paintings on the balcony wall, sculpture, and comfortable special niches for outstanding nooks where you can sit and rest.

"We hope that when we open the balcony next month, that we can get harried housewives to come in and relax for a couple of hours," Richard Carlson says.

Wall Sculptures. When you stop by, we hope that there will be some of the Curtis Jere wall sculptures left for you to see. These are of brass, copper and steel in various combinations forming imaginative groupings of single objects into a scene.

One grouping is a farm with a barn, windmill, fences all in fascinating perspective. It measures about five feet in length. ($150)

Another is a flight of seagulls, twenty-two of them in individual silhouettes ($105). There's a whimsy — a band concert with spindly, tubular chairs before the bandstand; another of square-riggers moored in the harbour; still another of people huddled under umbrellas at a bus stop ($70); and, the great whimsy, a casual array of parked racing bicycles, all wheels and curving lines with an aura of youth ($105).

New craftsmen found by Studio Twelve are making child-proof stuffed animals: a mouse ($6), a frog, a girl teddy bear prettily dressed, and others. The Carlsons looked a long time before they found these outstanding stuffed animals. Nearby are some Raggedy Anns, sturdily but imaginatively made with elastics in the pantaloons, snaps on the flowered stripe dresses.

Silver Bangles. In the jewelry cases, where only the handcraft work is shown, we saw Richard Carlson's pieces, characterized by extreme simplicity, letting the metal speak for itself. He is doing slim silver bangles for your wrist, also catch and knot bangles, pendants, necklaces of linked silver, including a very interesting silver cross on a chain. He also works in gold.

If you are really serious about wine-making, Studio Twelve has black (for white) iron racks from North Carolina artisans. The bottles are held in simple, decorative iron hoops, within a very sturdy, slim frame. Prices start at about $11. The largest rack holds over 60 bottles. The Studio also has wine carafes in three different shapes — made in Copenhagen.

Studio Twelve was the first to introduce the Malcolm Moran figures to this area. These are charming children, lovingly and delightedly sculpted and poised on semi-precious rocks. There's a boy fishing, a girl swinging, a boy walking precariously across a fence, and more. All are about eight or ten inches high, and are ardently collected by those who can afford them.

Something new in greeting cards has been added: large, loose-brush paintings on the cover and a package of wildflower seeds inside. Choose lupine, shasta daisy, black-eyed susan, sunflower or red flax.

For those with a sense of humor, greeting cards with gentle caricatures of knights and ladies poised over quotations from Shakespeare. A get-well card shows a disgruntled knight leaning on his sword, "How has he the leisure to be sick at such a justling time!" — From Henry IV, Act 3.

Studio Twelve is justly known for its china, porcelain and stoneware. There are hand-painted bowls from Denmark with such themes as a stretch of unsullied beach, or a fishing smack.

From Sweden, tiles that the avant garde is inserting into coffee tables; from Royal Copenhagen, the intricate Tenera designs; Iron Mountain Stoneware's new "Lookout Mountain pattern, designed by Nancy Patterson who formerly worked with Arabia. And beautiful china by Arzberg as well as Thomas's famous cobalt blue-on white.

There are a great many trays in the full gamut of sizes in beautiful woods or fine lacquers. People are buying the really large trays for serving cold cuts at a buffet. Nearby is fine cookware, with a good choice of color.

Studio Twelve's new quarters are really a great tribute to family unity. Daughter Janet helps out at the shop, son Bill worked since last fall on carpentry for the interior; another son, Robert, turned up on leave from the Navy to help, and every summer the oldest son, now a post-graduate student at the University of Washington, added his labor. The new shop opened early in August.

Hours for Studio Twelve are 10 to 6 on Monday, Tues., and Wed.; 10 to 9 p.m. on Thurs. and Fri.; Saturdays 10 to 6.

PORTRAITS FROM PHOTOS At The Artist's Shack. A growing number of people are taking favorite photographs over to the Artist's Shack and having oil paintings made.

The Artist's Shack, located in Pennytown, an unusual cluster of shops on Route 31 above Pennington, has a group of portraitists available who can work from a photo of a member of your family, or of your loved pet, or even your new Chris Craft. All they ask is that the photo be a sharp picture, without heavy shadows.

Prices are extremely reasonable: for a half-figure (to about the waist) on a 11x14 canvas $65; on 12x16 canvas $75, and for larger canvases $123 to $271. If the painting is to be of two persons, the cost ranges from $135 up.

You can also have three or four persons in the painting, and, logically, each face, being a portrait in itself, this is priced proportionately. Full length is 25 percent extra.

Consultation on Color. The artists will work from black-and white photographs, transparancies and negatives. You fill out a color chart, after you discuss with the Artist's Shack the style of painting you like. Sometimes a painting is done from a composite of photos.

The finished work is delivered in about four to six weeks, and the likeness is guaranteed to satisfy you. If not, "We'll paint it over!" the people at the Artist's Shack say.

You can have the color of a dress changed, or perhaps the neckline altered. (Big ears can be de-emphasized, if you want).

All of this saves a good deal of time sitting patiently for a portrait, which can be extremely trying if the subject is an active child or a busy executive.

The Artist's Shack has arranged for portraits of children, husband, wife, parents, sons in the service, relatives, clergy, athletes, civic leaders, and various government officials.

The Artist's Shack will also arrange to have your favorite landscape photo translated into an oil painting, or even arrange for copies of paintings by the masters.

On the subject of pictures, we should add that the Artist's Shack specializes in framing. "We're the cheapest in the area," we were told, "and we know this because we have checked them out." Samples of the work is on the walls, to reassure you of quality workmanship.

Crafts. On another track, the artist's Shack teaches several crafts. A new class in decoupage has just begun; others begin next month. Classes are free. Decoupage is taught as an art form, as has been the policy since the beginning. In fact, the Artist's Shack was about the first to introduce it to this area.

We saw an awesome number of prints — most of which are equally effective framed as on a decoupage box or plaque. There are more than 3,000 prints, and you can also order from the New York Graphic Society catalogue.

The shop has a plentiful and interesting supply of decoupage items for the craftsman. Twice a year there are shows for those who want to exhibit and sell their work.

In fact, the Artist's Shack will take paintings to sell for you, if your work is up to their standards. Some provocative work by local artists is on view.

Other assets at the Artist Shack include china painting supplies (classes, too); candle-making necessaries for your Christmas projects; macrame supplies; Grumbacher oils; canvas, and art instruction books.

Authentique. A new craft to inquire about is emboidied in the "Authentique" kits, which enable you to take a print and give it an oil painting look. ($14.95). You will see the kit advertised in House and Garden and in Family Circle this coming October. The Artist Shack is the originator.

There's a new kit called "Bandaform," which combines molding with gauze strips dipped in cement and a painted antique finish. Anyone from age 8 up can enjoy this unusual hobby, making candlesticks and other items. The cement is quick-setting.

The Artist's Shack may be reached by phone for further information by calling 466-2616.

Cabaret (now playing) Liza Minnelli in her star-making musical.

She is tough yet poignant, sophisticated yet naive in her portrayal of the kooky American girl who sings in one of Berlin's cellar cabarets and befriends a shy writer who lives in the same seedy boarding house. The year is 1931, and the Kit Kat Klub draws a sybaritic audience with its sleazy routines, while outside hooligans who call themselves Nazis are beginning to make inroads.

The movie is vintage vinegar, with first rate performances from Joel Gray, the mincing master of ceremonies; Michael York as a young, bisexual Englishman, and by Helmut Griem, Fritz Wepper and Marisa Berenson. Miss Minnelli is a beguiling girl, and in her musical numbers, particularly spellbinding.

The film ignores, more or less, the Broadway version of several years ago, and goes back to the original Christopher Isherwood "Berlin Stories" and the John Van Druten play, "I Am A Camera," adapted from the stories. There's a hilarious tea party scene. The musical numbers are brilliantly staged.

PLAYHOUSE

A Clockwork Orange (now playing) may strain your intellect, imagination and sensibilities, not necessarily in that order, but there is no denying that producer-director Stanley Kubrick ("2001") has concocted an unique theatrical experience.

CABARET, a musical set in pre-World War II Germany and starring Liza Minnelli, is held over this week at the Garden Theatre.

The controversy surrounding this X-rated picture is brought about by Kubrick's frank filming of scenes of sex and violence. The latter, especially, has been labled as particularly brutal by some. However, Kubrick is not interested in merely exploiting the two, but blending them in as an integral part of his film.

In a "Clockwork Orange," Kubrick once again ventures into the future, this time into the streets of a welfare society at a time when teenage violence has taken over. The protagonist, Malcolm McDowell, is an unusually vicious young hoodlum, who leads a bunch of other droogs on gang fights, rapes, and muggings.

When society finally decides that he should pay for a murder he committeed, he is put into a rehabilitation program, which transforms him into someone completely turned off by violence and sex. Released ant back on the streets he is at the mercy of his former gang members and victims, but eventually returns to his former state.

Novelist Anthony Burgess, who wrote the work from which the film is closely adapted, devised a special slang for his characters, which is retained by Kubrick in the screenplay. Viewers hearing this for the first time may have difficulty understanding the Russian basis for the language, and the sound track can be difficult to follow.

Kubrick's use of color in the film makes it become entwined with the violence and sexuality. Reds and deep oranges abound, deep in saturation and hue. Sound, too, becomes inextricably tied to color; through the use of classical works to which synthesizers are used, adding another dimension.

"A Clockwork Orange" made virtually every critic's "best film list," and was selected as the best picture by the New York Film Critics. This is not to say, however, that many won't find it confusing. But for those, who won't be immediately put off by the sex and violence, it should be worthwhile to see what you make of it.

PRINCE THEATRE

Frenzy (now playing) is a stirring triumph for director Alfred Hitchcock, providing unquestionable proof that the old master has reacquired his deft touch with a horror story.

Filmed in London, the story revolves around a couple of old RAF buddies and the rape-murders of several women that are plaguing the city. Hitchcock lets the movie audience in on who the killer is early in the film, and the suspense centers on how he will trip himself up.

Two or three of the scenes will be long remembered as Hitchcock at his best. An eight-minute episode in the office of one of the victim's (her fate is sealed the moment ner surprise visitor closes the door behind him) offers the last movie word in strangulation. Once Hitchcock is through, he never has to show the grisly act again.

Then, there is the fantastic "potato sack scene" wherein the killer in the back of a fast moving truck, is desperately trying to find the corpse he has hidden in one of the sacks, digging through the dusty potatoes until he finds a foot, then a leg, then...

Although Frenzy has its grim moments, Hitchcock as usual has interjected some extremely comic parts to relieve the tension. Also in a departure from past films, big name stars have been passed over in favor of an impeccably chosen cast of excellent English performers.

All in all, Frenzy is a film that definitely measures up to some of the earlier Hitchcock masterpieces such as Rear Window or Psycho.

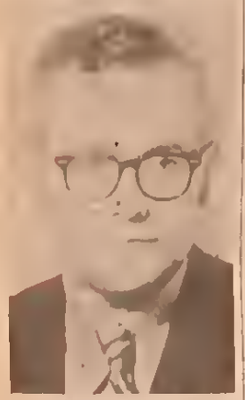
Four Princeton residents will enter 150-year-old Trinity College, Hartford, Conn., this fall: Matthew H. Cahn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey D. Cahn of 486 Ewing Street; David A. Ludlum, son of Mr. and Mrs. David M. Ludlum of 285 Riverside Drive; Timothy S. Warren, son of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Warren of 81 Woodside Lane, and Janet L. Witter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald G. Witter of 35 Turner Court. They will arrive at the college on August 31 for several days of orientation. Classes begin September 7 for Trinity's 1,500 undergraduates.

Marine Cpl. John J. Manning, son of Mr. and Mrs. John A Manning of Deerfield Park Apts., Hightstown, has left Morehead City, N.C. for a six-month deployment to the Mediteranean with the 34th Marine Amphibious Unit (MAU).

Navy Petty Officer 2C Fred T. Richards Jr., is serving aboard the aircraft carrier USS Intrepid in the North Atlantic. He is the son of Fred T. Richards of 21 S. Stanwurth Drive.



Russell E. Marks Jr. of 75 Linwood Circle has been named executive vice president and chief operating officer of Marine International Corporation, the president, Dr. I William Lone, has announced. He joined the firm in February 1971 as vice president of operations, after serving nine months in the international division of Chase Manhattan Bank. A graduate of Princeton University, he was with W. R Grace & Co. for 15 years, where his last position was vice president of the Latin American Group. Marine International, headquartered in Newark, is a diversified producer of specialty seafood products, with operations in Canada, the United States, South America and Africa.

Mrs. Doreen J. Utman, 160 Honeybrook Drive, testified on behalf of some 7,000 New Jersey members of the American Association of University Women at hearings last week in Hackensack regarding the construction of a proposed multimillion-dollar sports complex in the New Jersey meadowlands. Mrs. Utman represented Mrs. Martha Karraker, 28 Wittmer Court, who is President of the New Jersey State Division of the AAUW in presenting the association's concerns over plans for the undertaking.

The State Division AAUW has for several years been involved in a study of land use in this state, and has passed a legislative program dealing with the concept of environmental impact and environmental responsibility. In reviewing the draft environmental assessment prepared by the consultant for the New Jersey Sports and Exposition Authority, several questions as to the recommendations in the study were posed by Mrs. Utman.

The problems of air, water and noise pollution were not adequately solved in the report, and in most cases the solutions set forth were not backed up by adequate projections of guaranteed by specific plans, Mrs. Utman said. The traffic problem which will be the result of this type of development of the Meadowlands was touched upon in the draft assessment but not adequately solved, she declared.

Mrs. Utman stressed the need for a Socio-economic study to deal with the problems of the people of the area in addition to the environmental problems. She also asked that possible alternative solutions to the sport complex be looked into, including changing size and location of the facilities and even the alternative of not building the complex at all.

Miss Minda Logan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold G. Logan of 460 Walnut Lane, has been accepted as a student in Class B at Simon's Rock, the "early college" in Great Barrington, Massachusetts. She had previously attended Princeton High School. Simon's Rock is the only college in the nation accepting students after tenth grade in a four year program of collegiate studies. The college places special emphasis on acquainting the student with the nature of the adult's responsibility for ordering his own life in a manner that serves the well-being of others as well as his own.

Navy Petty Officer Third Class Paul D. Beeman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul R. Beeman of 108 Route 31, Pennington participated in a special Sixth Fleet operation in the Mediterranean aboard the aircraft carrier USS John F. Kennedy.

Orren Jack Turner III of the Orren Jack Turner Studio, Hopewell, is taking part in a conference at the Winona School of Professional Photography, Winona Lake, Ind., where new techniques and refresher training is provided. The 50-year-old school has trained over 15,000 photographers. The conference features some of the nation's best-known photographers as instructors and is an activity of the Professional Photographers of America, Inc.

The National Institute on Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism, a division of the National Institute of Mental Health, has awarded a research grant of $51,500 to Dr. A. Arthur Sugerman to carry out research over the next two years into methods of predicting outcome in the treatment of alcoholic patients at the Carrier Clinic, Belle Mead. Dr. Sugarman lives at 125 Roxboro Road, Lawrence Township.

Dr. Sugerman, who has been on the clinical and research staff of the Clinic since 1968, received his medical training at Dublin University and later obtained the Doctor of Medical Science degree of the State University of New York. He holds the Diploma in Psychological Medicine from the University of Newcastle upon Tyne, England, as well as from the English Royal Colleges of Physicians and Surgeons.

For the past decade, he has been Chief of the Investigative Psychiatry Section of the New Jersey Bureau of Research in Neurology and Psychiatry at the N. J. Neuro-Psychiatric Institute, Skillman, where he has been carrying out research into new drugs for schizophrenia and quantitative brain-wave analysis.

The research grant will pay the expenses of the study and permit intensive investigation of the life history and psychology of alcoholic men and women in order to test the influence of certain factors on work and life adjustment during the year following treatment at the Clinic.

James H. Hall, 23 Center Street, Hopewell, has received a certificate of appreciation from New Jersey Community Affairs Commissioner Lawrence F. Kramer for his assistance to Pennsylvania in emergency clean-up activities following tropical storm Agnes.

Mr. Hall, a housing inspector for the Department, was one of 15 men who spent two weeks in Harrisburg and Wilkes-Barre in order to assess structural damage to commercial and residential buildings and determine which buildings are still habitable.

Commissioner Kramer commended Mr. Hall and the other inspectors for their "unselfish assistance in an emergency situation." He noted that the men had given up their July 4th holiday and time with their families in order to assist the citizens of neighboring Pennsylvania.

ETS SEEKS INFANTS

To Aid in Research. How soon is a baby able to recognize its mother as a unique person? What factors influence the social growth of children? What makes them laugh or what causes them to be curious?

Educational Testing Service psychologists are now seeking the cooperation of mothers with babies one month old or less or nine to eighteen months to help answer these questions about the first months of life.

They believe that tape recordings of babies' responses to the sounds of their mothers' voices and observing what pictures make babies laugh may be clues that can aid in research.

If you are a mother of a baby less than one month old, please call ETS at 921-9000, ext 2559. Mothers with babies between nine and eighteen months of age should call extension 2774. A $3 remuneration will be provided for your help. Transportation is available, if necessary.

SCOUTING NIGHT SET

For November 16. Harry Kihn of the George Washington Council, Boy Scouts of America has announced that a School Night for Scouting will be held on November 16 throughout the entire council.

The feature is a one-night stand in centrally located schools. It is a short, fast-moving session where boys and parents gather to see simple displays and to hear a brief outline of Scouting. They will talk with Cubmasters and Scoutmasters, make out applications, pay fees and obtain information about pack and troop meetings. The goal is to provide the opportunity for 500 boys to join Scouting in one night.

Dr. Thomas E. Robinson of Pennington will serve as chairman for the School Night for Scouting. Dr. Robinson retired in 1970 and is now active in writing and college consultation.

BLAIRSTOWN NEARS

For Princeton Football. Just two weeks remain before Princeton's 82-man football squad heads for its Blairstown training camp and 11 days of practice in the (hopefully) cool air of the Kittatinny Mountains.

A rebuilding job unparalleled in nearly two decades of Tiger gridiron history faces Coach Jake McCandless. Princeton has lost 23 lettermen, including its three top running backs, and there is no apparent ability waiting in the wings to replace the departed ball carriers.

Speedy Hank Bjorklund, now with the New York Jets following his draft in the 12th round; bruising Doug Blake, a fine inside runner, and the highly versatile Walt Snickenberger are all gone. Snickenberger's academic failure after a fine sophomore year was the ultimate blow; he had been a replacement for both Bjorklund and Blake last fall, and it was largely on his speed and fine broken-field ability that hopes hung for any semblance of a Tiger offense.

Compounding the problem is the fact that the upcoming sophomore contingent is far weaker than usual. The Class of 1975 had a mere 40 football-playing members on the campus last fall – less than half the number of candidates who have answered the initial call for practice in other years. It produced little if any promising material, winning but one of its six games and giving one performance after another that had Princetonians viewing the future with the blackest pessimism.

To the Air. One develop-

ment seems a certainty for the 1972 Tigers. In the absence of any established running backs, they will throw far more than they have in a number of seasons – particularly the last two, when Rod Plummer was the choice at quarterback. A ball carrier himself in his high school days at Plainfield, he invariably kept to the ground if given the option, a decision implemented by the occasional inaccuracy of his short passing game.

Junior Jim Flynn is the current choice to return to the starting position he took over when Plummer injured his ankle in the third game of 1971 at Ithaca. Flynn paced the Tigers to four straight victories – over Colgate, Penn, Brown and Harvard – but neither he nor anyone else had a good day in the final two devastating defeats at the hands of Yale and Dartmouth.

Princeton hopes for aerial success will lie largely on the presence of four better-than-average receivers, all fast, all equipped with good hands and at least a year of varsity experience. They are ends Kerry Brown and Baron Jones and flanker backs Larry Chollet and Bill Skinner.

With little to lose by adopting a wide open game, the Tiger attack this fall will ride largely on the success that Flynn can develop in pitching to these targets. Flynn's ability, in turn, will hinge on the extent to which a rebuilt line and a brand new backfield can pass block for him.

IVY INN TAKES TITLE

In Adult Softball. Clutch performances last week against Staats Electric and Nassau - Conover assured Ivy Inn of its first title in the Adult Softball League. The victors finished the regular season with a fine 11-2 mark, leading runner-up Conte's Bar by a comfortable two-and-a-half-game margin.

A three run third inning gave Ivy all the scoring it needed in a 5-2 victory over Staats as the losers were held to six hits. The key blows in Ivy's big inning were credited to Bill Bartolino, Tony Pirone, Tom DeVito, Doug Watson and Dave Britton.

A tight defense helped hold Nassau Conover scoreless as Ivy produced four runs in the game that assured the title. Bryce Chase of Nassau - Conover both had three hits in as many at bats.

Conte's hopes of catching the leaders were shattered by Staats when the Electricians scored six times in the fourth to take an 8 to 1 lead, holding on for an 8-6 triumph after the Barmen came up with five in their half of the fifth. Erratic defensive play contributed to Conte's downfall.

Earlier in the week, Staats knocked Harrison Athletic Club out of playoff contention with a 7-5 triumph. A five - run fifth proved decisive for the Maroon as Dave Drake, Bill Staats, John Milchanoski, Rob Staats and Chuck Worshofski led the attack.

OUTER DEFENSE FOR IVY INN: Larry McHugh and Walt Zamerovsky both play the outfield for Ivy Inn's team in the Adult Softball League. Each is hitting over .300.

Conte's had more luck in recording a 10-6 triumph over Teague and Hinds as the teams lashed out a total of 40 hits. The early lead changed hands frequently during the first five innings, Conte's five runs in the sixth turning the tide in its favor. Bill McQuade of the victors has had a perfect night at the plate.

Teague's found a victim in last-place Andy's Tavern, recording a 5-1 decision in a defensive battle that was marked by no more than 13 hits. Princeton Athletic Club also defeated Andy's, 11-3, on the strength of 15 hits, many of which came in a five-run first.

PAC also topped Grover's Hustlers, 7-5, likewise pounding out 15 safeties in this game and starting quickly with a four-run first. A 6-4 triumph over Harrison A.C. then gave PAC its best week of the season. Jim Frye and Hugo Rossi both hit on every trip to the plate, as did Edgar Riddick of HAC.

In other action Grover's Hustlers lambasted HAC, 14-4, Dick McGee leading the victors' 19-hit attack with a four-for-four performance. Five in the first and seven more in the sixth told the story.

Nassau - Conover overcame a 4-0 lead that Grover's built up in the first inning, edging the Hustlers, 6 to 5. The winning run scored when Joe Cimerola doubled home Phil White in the sixth. Bryce Chase had three singles and a walk for the victors.

In one of the more unique games of the season, Nassau-Conover trailed Conte's 11-1 as it came to bat in the last of the second but erased most of the deficit with nine in that round. Conte's then added another to make it 12-10 in the top of the fifth.

Nassau - Conover drew closer again with one in the last of the fifth, the sixth was scoreless and Conte's still led, 12-11, with two out in the last of the seventh, the final regulation inning. Then Nassau-Conover pushed over the 24th run of the game — on a single by Phil White and a damaging infield error — and the contest went into overtime.

In the top of the eighth, Conte's filled the bases only to see two solid line drives caught for solid outs. Nassau Conover got John Armonia on second, Conte's intentionally walked Tom Brophy and Mark Anderson hit a sharp grounder to shortstop Wes Cawley.

Cawley's throw to first was wide and Armonia headed home from second, barely beating the throw to the plate for a 1312 triumph for Nassau-Conover. In five previous games over two seasons, Conte's had won, 11-10, 8-7, 9-5 and 7-6 before the teams played to a deadlock which lasted 13 innings and ended 11-all.

HOCKEY SCHEDULE SET

Tigers to Play 24 Games. Princeton University's varsity hockey team, entering upon its sixth season under Coach Bill Quackenbush and battling to escape from the Ivy League cellar, will play 24 games in the 1972-73 season. Fourteen games have also been scheduled for the Class of 1976.

Captained by goalie Ed Swift, the Tigers, following seven early-season games and prior to opening the Ivy League campaign on January 31, will participate in the Nichols School Holiday Tournament, December 29 and 30, in Buffalo, N.Y., where the opposition will be provided by Buffalo, St. Lawrence and Vermont.

Shown above is John Conroy (right), Co-Director of the Princeton Community Tennis Program, presenting a check for $1,000 to Mrs. Simeon Hutner, President of the Youth Tennis Foundation of Princeton, and L. V. Silvester Jr., the Foundation's Treasurer. Conroy, who is also vice-president of the New Jersey Lawn Tennis Association, presented the check on behalf of the Association's President, John Fox, Varsity Tennis Coach of Glassboro State Teachers College.

The money will be used primarily to expand the Teachers Workshops which the staff of the Princeton Community Tennis Program conducts annually — here in Princeton, as well as in other areas of New Jersey and nationally.

The officers of the Youth Tennis Foundation feel that the check from the NJLTA is an auspicious beginning to a special gifts campaign that will be launched in September. With the Foundation's increasing activities on behalf of tennis both locally and nationally, a permanent headquarters is being planned to house the program. This means that increased funds will be needed. Anyone who would like to assist with the September fund-raising drive should contact Mrs. Hutner or Mr. Silvester.

ATTRITION INCREASES

Third Freshman Coach Leaves. Paul Lufkin, freshman hockey coach at Princeton for the past two seasons, has been named head coach of the sport at Yale, effective immediately.

He thus becomes the third freshman coach in a key sport at Princeton to leave within the past few months. Doug James, in charge of the first-year football program here last year, resigned to teach and coach at Lawrenceville, while Art Hyland, freshman basketball coach for the past five years, is now an assistant commissioner with the Eastern College Athletic Conference.

A 30 year old graduate of Boston College, Lufkin succeeds Dick Gagliardi, who coached Yale hockey teams for seve years before signing last May to become the University's associate business manager of athletics.

Lufkin, a native of Gloucester, Mass., earned a reputation as a popular and offense-minded coach during his two years as an aide to Princeton coach Bill Quackenbush. His teams compiled a combined record of 19-12-2 at Princeton.

After receiving the "Most Improved Player Award" as a Boston College freshman in 1960-61, Lufkin was a regular on the Eagle varsity for the next three seasons. He accumulated 18 goals and 30 assists on squads that had a 55-30-2 record in his three years.

Lufkin, who psepared for BC at Gloucester High Sihool and Deerfield Academy, spent three years in military servile before returning to Deerfield where he put in two years as an assistant hockey and baseball coach.

Married on August 5 to the former Elizabeth Henderson, he is the owner and director of Camp Pocumtuck in Greenfield, Mass., a hockey camp in its second year of operation.

PRINCETONIANS DO WELL

In State Swimming. Six relay teams of Princeton age-group swimmers participated in the finals of the New Jersey Junior Olympic Relay Championships last week at Middlesex Community Pool, and came home with an array of medals, including one set of gold.

The boys 10-under freestyle relay won the state championship, and took 2nd place in the medley relay. These swimmers are Drew Stevenson, Robby Littell, Bobby Hiel, and John Cummins.

The girls 13-14 team, made up of Carol McGrath, Jan Denise, Martha Kinney, and Janet Shivers, took silver medals for second place in the 400 free relay, and bronze medals for 3rd place in the 400 medley relay.

The boys 11-12 team won third in the 200 medley relay, and 4th in the 200 free relay. The medley team consists of Matt Sabisky, Paul McKenna, Beaver O'Hara, and Rick Gavenda. The freestyle team is Sabisky, O'Hara, Gavenda, and Tim Enright.

The boys 15-17 team also took 3rd and 4th places in the 400 free relay and the 400 medley relay respectively. This team is made up of Tom McKenna, Pete Manieri, Chuck Hector, and Mike Reock.

The boys 13-14 team, of Pancho Stockpole, Greg Lauffer, Mike McKenna, and Bill Stevenson, took a third in the 400 medley relay, and a fifth in the 400 free relay. The girls 11-12 team, Kim Lambert, Mina Wert, Mary Bolster, and Valerie Hiel, took a sixth place in the 200 medley relay. Also competing in the meet were Barbara Lambert, Diana Caskey, Norma Voeghtlin, Susan Faloona, and Cathy Stockpole.

Hiel, O'Hara Win. Bobby Hiel and Beaver O'Hara led the Princeton contingent of state-level swimmers, as expected, at the finals of the Junior Olympics Swimming Championships at Lake Mohawk on Saturday and at Livingston on Sunday. Hiel won three gold medals and O'Hara two, and a new state record besides.

Hiel's events were the 50 meter freestyle, 32.8; the 200 meter individual medley, 3:04.1; and the 100 meter freestyle, in which he already holds the state record for boys 10 and under, in 1:13.0.

O'Hara's gold medals were in the 50 meter freestyle for boys 11-12, in which he already holds the state record, 29.2; and the 100 meter freestyle, 1:04.2, a new record for New Jersey.

Altogether 23 swimmers from the Princeton Community swimming program placed in the finals of the Junior Olympics in New Jersey, in a total of 34 separate events. Jeff Lowe and Bill Farley, the coaches of the age-group and older swimmers in the program, believe this is a larger number of Princeton swimmers than ever before.

Peter Manieri took two silver medals for second place, in the 100 breaststroke and the 200 breaststroke, for boys 15-17. His times were 1:16.6, in the 100, and 2:49.5 in the 200. Martha Kinney took second place in the 100 backstroke for girls 13-14, in a time of 1:16.2. She also took a third in the 200 backstroke, in 2:47.1.

Janet Shivers won a second-place medal in the 200 breaststroke for girls 13-14, in a time of 3:16.8. This was more than 3 seconds faster than her qualifying time. She also took a third place in the 100 breaststroke, in 1:30.2. In this race, too, she pared nearly 3 seconds from her qualifying time.

Other third place winners were Maura Dorgan, in the 100 backstroke for girls, 15-17, in 1:17.1; Drew Stevenson, in the 10-under 100 freestyle, in 1:17.3; Gretchen Wendel, 10-under, in the 200 freestyle, in 2:58.1; Greg Lauffer in the 100 backstroke for boys 13-14, 1:15; and Andy Bolster, the 100 breaststroke for boys 15-17, 1:18.5.

Former Princeton swimmers whose state records still stand are Bob Meusel, who set the record for 100 freestyle for boys 15-17 in 1968, at 57.5; and Hill Crell whose record in the 100 breaststroke for boys 13-14, was set in 1966.

Cathie Corcione, who has been swimming with the Princeton swimmers this summer, still has several state records, set while she was swimming with Shore Aquatic. In 1966 she set the record for 100 breaststroke for girls 13-14. Perhaps the longest-standing record of any is her record for 50 meter butterfly for girls 10 and under, set in 1963, which was broken for the first time this year by another swimmer from Shore, Debbie Pyykko.

WINNERS LISTED

In Women's Golf, Mrs. Paul Miele placed first in the Class A Division of a women's golf tournament at the Pike Brook Country Club. Selective scores were posted over a two-week period.

Runner up was Mrs. Herb Gelwitz. In Class B, the winner was Mrs. Thomas Seward, with Mrs. Walter Flaherty second.

SEASON ENDS WELL

For Pine Brae Swim Team Pine Brae Club's swim team, coached by Margaret Martin, ended its season in the Catfish League of the New Jersey Swimming and Diving Conference with three trophies — first place in the twelve-team diving championship, second place in the year's six-team dual meets (won 10, lost 2), and third place in the twelve-team swimming championship.

Divers receiving medals at the diving championship held at the Warrenbrook Country Club were Kristie Rice, first, and Penny Pariso, second girls 10 and under; Jane Kappes, fifth, girls 13-14; Bob Reid, sixth, boys 13-14; and Julie Strickland, first, girls 15-17.

Pine Brae swimmers participating in the two-day swimming championships held August 5 in Manville and August 6 in Freehold came home with 51 medals. Top medal winners were Julie Strickland, who added two golds and two silvers to her gold for diving; Matt Strickland, three golds and one silver; and Steve Perry, three golds.

Beth Timmerman took two golds and two silvers, while Edgar Born and Geoff Clarke each had two golds. Bob Hodemaker and Libby Kappes each received a gold and a silver in their two individual events.
